30.11.2023. Lets add a third video of the streetlight display. I am walking towards and then away from the lamp trying to keep the cza and parhelia in view. At my nearest position to the lamp cza had become a broad surface, the lamp elevation likely more than 32 degrees which is when all of the halo is floating out there in some distance, none of it "eye connected" as per the terminology by Walt Tape in his book Streetlight Halos. Of course a true halo man would have had the mind to walk even closer to see it connecting eventually with the lamp. He would of also checked for the cha. Well, actually I did, but was not quite up to scratch. Still shedding the rust.
