The two day uninterrupted fog event is over. It was perfect – calm, right temps and no precipitation at all. Would have been a real rager had the guns been on. Too often when conditions are the best, guns are silent because it is too warm. But now it was not even that warm as it was around -10 C.

More fog should be on the way in the coming days, but I think they will also go to waste – either by guns not running or by it being too cold.
